

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A removable mounting bracket for attaching a component to a mounting surface includes a bracket body having a mounting projection and a plurality of elongated retaining members extending outwardly therefrom. The mounting projection cooperates with a fastener for fastening the component to the mounting surface. At least one of the retaining members has an aperture formed therein that releasably engages a corresponding plurality of mounting tabs formed on the component.

c:\cf\2072\15768.bax

1003555 122601